Americana Makeover

LIKE BASEBALL AND apple pie, this Pennsylvania abode is tried-and-true in its nod to the red, white and blue. So when they decided to redo their kitchen, the homeowners wanted the room to reflect that same Americana style. They also wanted an agile assemblage that would facilitate frequent entertaining. One of the nation's foremost architects, the client also requested an uncommon kitchen that would mesh with the overarching vernacular while spotlighting a painstaking consideration to design and construction. As such, they brought on award-winning renovation firm Gardner/Fox to provide design and construction services.

At once warm and elegant, the room is evocative of traditional Williamsburg—with an emphatic twist. Natural American cherry is a classic counterpoint to the distressed black painted cabinets. Molding and stars accent the radiused beaded-inset cabinetry for a singular impression. An oversized island pulls double duty as an entertainment station and the crowning centerpiece for holiday soirées. French doors open up against each other for fluid traffic flow from inside to out. Fully integrated, the refrigeration units emulate the warmth of antique furniture as the primary influence throughout this radiant room—an all-American redux that's truly ahead of its time. Learn more about this renovation at www.gardnerfox.com. >>
